What a District Manager does

District Managers motivate, coach, and support the objective of providing outstanding customer service and performance by leading a team of branch managers in retail banking locations. This includes working and strategizing with branch managers to create a vision and plan that focuses on customer service and meeting the needs of our customers based on their financial needs. District Managers coach, train, and develop branch and service managers around soundness and efficiency in branch operations, implementation of branch performance objectives, diagnosing performance problems, addressing human resources and team management issues, and delivering exceptional customer service. They also coach managers and partner with other Wells Fargo lines of business to deepen customer relationships.

How a District Manager helps contribute to the success of a branch

Create and implement action plans that will contribute to the overall success of a branch:

- Assess the capabilities and opportunities at each branch to create and implement specific actionable plans to improve branch performance
- Set clear expectations on the vision behind the action plans and communicate the vision
- Engage with the team to discuss ongoing performance, identify opportunities, and address complex situations
- Ensure regulatory compliance policies and procedures are met and work with branch managers to address potential deficiencies

Coach and develop managers:

- Spend time within individual branches to actively observe and coach service and branch managers on key aspects such as customer service
- During branch visits, support and observe to ensure team members and resources are being leveraged appropriately (i.e. proper coverage by having the right staffing in the right place at the right time)
- Provide managers with opportunities to learn and contribute on projects for development of skills that help them with their professional progress at Wells Fargo
- Work through complex human resource issues (such as terminations and other challenging employee relations issues) with managers to determine the appropriate next steps
- Through role-modeling, teach managers how to develop innovative and creative ways (such as individual and team recognition, team building activities, and team spirit activities) to encourage, inspire, motivate, and support their teams

Align and communicate corporate-wide and regional banking initiatives:

- Clearly communicate how each initiative aligns with Wells Fargo's Vision & Values as well as the performance objectives of the branch
- Support and assist managers in prioritizing and creating a plan to effectively respond to change and support ongoing initiatives while maintaining focus on customers and branch objectives

Be a part of the community:

- Actively participate in local community events, committees and business groups
- Teach branch managers the importance of representing Wells Fargo in the local community

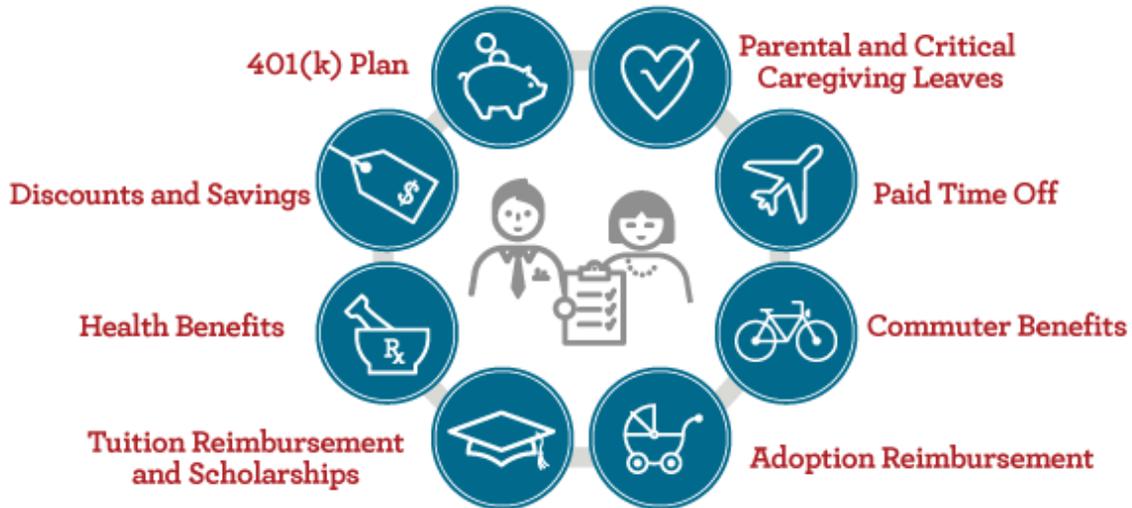

Together we'll go far
