

Dear Colleague,

At Premise Health, our 500 physicians share a common purpose: helping others get, stay, and be well. This calling—to make a difference through compassionate, evidence-based care—remains at the heart of everything we do.

Our care model is intentionally designed to put patients first while supporting clinicians in practicing medicine the way it was meant to be practiced. Unlike traditional fee-for-service environments driven by reimbursement rates and patient volume, Premise Health focuses on value and outcomes over volume—delivering meaningful care, one individual at a time.

This model allows our clinicians the time and flexibility to build deeper, more personal relationships with their patients. Freed from the constant pressure of throughput, our physicians and advanced practice clinicians can provide comprehensive, whole-person care—addressing not only physical concerns but also the behavioral, emotional, and social factors that influence health. The result is greater professional satisfaction and more impactful practice experience.

Through partnerships with many of the nation's most respected employers, Premise Health clinicians serve both individuals and populations. Leveraging leading technologies and a fully integrated approach to primary care—including Behavioral Health, Pharmacy, Preventive Services, Condition Management, Care Navigation, Wellness, Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Fitness, and Virtual Health—we deliver superior outcomes, exceptional patient experiences, and measurable value.

We also embrace the tenets of Lifestyle Medicine—nutrition, physical activity, sleep, and social connections as key pillars of well-being and chronic disease management. Recognizing the profound influence of social determinants of health, we are dedicated to culturally competent, equitable care that meets patients where they are.

The results are clear: better outcomes for our patients, and a deeply rewarding practice experience for our clinicians.

Thank you for taking the time to learn more about Premise Health and the difference our team is making nationwide.

With respect and best wishes in your clinical endeavors,
