GREENVILLE, TX

United States

Less than an hour out from the bustling Dallas/Fort Worth metropolitan area, Greenville offers the quiet respite and charm of a small town with access to the amenities of a big city. Surrounded by the natural beauty of Texas, there are plenty of opportunities to enjoy the great outdoors. If that's not your speed, Greenville has a historic downtown that hosts many annual festivals and events, live music and more throughout the year.

In Greenville, L3Harris provides end-to-end design, development, analysis and integration/testing of complex ISR solutions based on 70 years of experience in specialized aircraft modification. With more than 3.7 million square feet, the Greenville facilities support manufacturing, multi-sensor testing, anechoic testing, aircraft painting and flight-line shelters with an additional multi-sensor test range that is a Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) approved airspace for flight testing.
